its effect.

Reports showing that this delay in casting the votes was general during the early hours of the day came from all over the city. In one case a voter in Harlem want to the polling place in his district in Third avenue at 7.30 A. M. and found sixty men in line by actual count.

The election clerks were doing their best to keep the line moving, but at the very least estimate at that hour each voter had to be allowed five minutes to prepare and cast his vote.

In very many cases it was the ignorant voters who caused the delay. Five or six of them would get into the booths, and each one would come out three or four times with his ballots folded improperly or with some of them missing, and would have to be sent back again, thus keeping the line waiting.

Mistakes of this kind were even frequent among the well-dressed and intelligent-looking voters of the brownstone districts, who thought they knew it all, or had regarded the matter as of so little importance that they had neglected to inform themselves upon the details of their duties.

"Hecelers" Kept at a Distance.

One provision of the Election laws which was strictly enforced during the early part of the day was that which forbids the workers of any party or faction to electioneer within 150 feet of the polling place. The police had received very rigid instructions upon this point from Superintendent Hyrnes, and for the first time in the history of the dewntown election districts.

Party heelers who had in previous years run things at these polling places to suit themselves, found that their authority was interfered with by bluecoats with whom they were unacquainted. This was the result of the order put in force for the first time this year that the police officers assigned to duty at the various poling places, should not live in the district to which they were detailed. In other words the Tammany district captains could not count upon having a friendly policeman to assist them in buil-dozing voters.

The Eighth Atsembly District the Perme of the Pequod Club, a Tammany stronghold, embracing, as it does, weathy section of Pifth avenue, and the squallid misery of South Fifth avenue, and the sand upward of 11.09 voters. Last year the Tammany leaders started out early this morning to poll a heavier vote, if possible, this year.

One of the strongholds of Tammany in this district, is the Porty-sevenith Election District, the polling place of which is situated at 16. Third street.

As the colored vote is numerous in the locality, the Tammany heelers started in early at their tactics of intimidation or bribery. They mer with an unexpected check, however, in the persons of Policemen Hyatt and Heidelbach, from the Mercer street station, who were assigned to duty there.

As soon as the polis were opened these policeman drove every worker from the place and announced in a mist determined manner that any person attempting to do electioneering within 150 feet of the poling place would be arrested.

An interesting triangular fight is in progress in the Eighth, between William H. Walker, the Tammany candidate for Assembly; Edward W. Zimmerman, the Milholland candidate, and Alfred R. Conkling, the regular Republican candidate.

Concede Grant the Eighth.

The Independent and Republican watchers, however, concede that Grant will carry the district, but they are confident that his majority will be less than 1,000.

Inquiry at more than a score of the polling-places demonstrated that the constitutional amendments are either not being voted at all or being voted against by a great majority of the suffragists. The question of consolidation is something that does not seem to have found a lodsment in the minds of the voters on South Fifth avenue, Bleecker, Wooster, Houston, Macdougal or Minetta street.

In this city and Brooklyn the registration shows a larger number of qualified voters than in any previous year excepting in 1892, and if every one who is entified to do so casts his ballots this will Republican Captain Arrested.

Mayor Giroy, John McQuade, Corporation Counsel Clark, De Lancey Nigoli, John M. Bowers and David Leventritt went to Tammany Hall early this morning and announced that they would stay all day to receive reports and give legal and other advice to the district leaders.

None of these gentlemen looked hopeful. They seemed to have given up the idea that Grant would pull through, and their interest seemed to be centred in Hill's prospects.

One of them said confidentially to a reporter that his only hope now was that Hill would be elected. He added that in that event Tammany could get along for a couple of years with a Republican in the Mayor's chair.

Blocked by the Amendments.

Blocked by the Amendments.

The reports received at Tammany Hall up to II o'clock were all to the same effect, that a heavy vote was being polled throughout the city, but that the constitutional amendments were blocking the progress of the voting.

It was said that the Tammany voters were voting mere rapidly than others. It was said that the Tammany voters were voting more rapidly than others, because they had no trouble over the constitutional amendments. They were voting against the whole lot of them, it was said, under instructions from their district leaders, and did not, therefore, have to waste any time in deliberation. The Tammany Law Committee, after waiting an hour for complaints, adjourned to Mr. Leventritt's office in the Stewart Building where they will remain until the polis close.

No Guessing on Figures.

At Grant's headquarters in the Union Square Hotel, was said before noon that reports received from the Seven-teenth and Twenty-first Districts indi-cated a phenomenally large vote in those districts. No figures were mentioned as districts. No figures were mentioned as to the possible pluralities.
Hugh J. Grant did not go to his headquarters during the morning. It was said that he was taking a look over several districts.

According to reports received in Tammany Hall, Tammany men are voting for Rapid Transit and against all the constitutional amendments and consolidation. It was said that no instructions had been given in regard to consolidation, but that there was a tacit agreement that Tammany voters should try to defeat it.

To Receive the Returns.

Entirely new arrangements have been made for receiving the returns and counting the vote at Police Headquarters to-night, and it is expected that this work will be so, greatly expedited that the results of the heads of the State and city tickets will be announced before 9 o'clock.

The new system, which has been perfected by Supt. Brennan, of the Police Telegraph Bureau, consists of a complete telephone service between Headquarters and every police station in the city. As fast as the returns are brought in by the officers from the different election districts the results will be telephoned in to the Central Office, while the complete returns will be sent in later by measurager, as in former years. Preparations have also been made for receiving the returns at the various political headquarters in the city. Tammany Hall will, of course, keep open house to-night, and many of the candidates will gather upon the platform in the big hail of the Wigwam to hear the returns as they are read off by Clerk John B. Metfodrick.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Cold weather and disagreeable wind prevails in this city and throughout Northern New York to-day. The voting is slow, to but both the Republican and Democratic vote is being cast. At noon over half of the entire city vote had been polled.

The interest in the municipal contest lies in the no-license issue, which has caused a split in the Democratic ranks. Labor men are voting their own city ticket, but are voting Morton for Governor. A strict watch is being kept for illegal voters, and one arrest was made this morning.

DELHI. N. Y., Nov. 6.—The weather is cold and the roads are still very muddy from yesterday's storm, consequently the vote is coming in slowly for both sides. There is no xxvivement.

No Trouble in Troy.

TROY. N. Y., Nov. 6.—10 A. M.—
Indications at this hour tend towards a heavy vote without any trouble of a serious nature. In the Thirteenth Ward, where Robert Ross was murdered last March, there have been several challenges, but no arrests. In the First District of this ward, overd 500 names are registered, and it is believed impossible to get in the entire vote before the close. Two negroes were arrested in the Seventh Ward for illegal voting and locked up. One of them had a razor in his Conclus.

ONEIDA. N. Y., Nov. 6.—The weather throughout Madison County to-day is cool but pleasant. There was a heavy rain yesterday and the roads are somewhat muddy. Reports from the county show that a large vote is being polled. Democrats are not generally voting on the amendments.

MALONE, N. Y., Nov. 6.—The voting proceeds quietly in Tranklin County. The snow fell all day Monday, causing bad roads. The weather to-day is cold, and it is still snowing slightly. Inquiry at noon indicates a heavy vote. But few are voting the amendments.

Full Vote in Utica.

UTICA, N. Y., Nov. 6.—A heavy vote is being poiled here, and it is probable that each State ticket will receive the full strength of its party. The election is proceeding quie.ly, and the day is cloudy and cold. The roads in the country are very bad.

BCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 6.—The election is passing off without an incident. It is a rough, cold day, with frequent snow squalis. Reports from the country in county and Congressional districts are of had roads and a light vote. At noon about two-thirds of the vote had been cast in this city.
